

CHANNEL ISLAND NATIONAL PARK VISITOR CENTER

Enacted into existence by an act of Congress in 1980, Channel Islands National Park encompasses a captivating realm of natural wonder. Its domain spans across five out of the eight Channel Islands situated off the picturesque Southern California coastline: Anacapa, Santa Cruz, Santa Rosa, San Miguel, and the distant Santa Barbara Island, which rarely unveils itself to the mainland's gaze.

MAVCCO MARKET

In a heartfelt tribute to their beloved sons, Maverick and Rocco, Dan and Jennifer Hasbrouck, proprietors of the fuel dock, bestowed the name "MAVCCO" upon their establishment.

Beyond offering essential fueling services, MAVCCO extends its hospitality to the boating community and residents of the Ventura Harbor marina with a delightful waterfront marina market.

MERMAID STATUES AT SOTER'S POINT

Gracing the scenic Soter Point in Ventura, California, stands an enchanting statue of a flute-playing Russian mermaid—a remarkable gift bestowed upon the city by Alec and Tatyana Benke in 2009.

Hailing from Kazakhstan, the Benkes embarked on a journey of migration to the United States, and this captivating mermaid sculpture stands as a profound symbol of their profound affection for their newfound homeland.

SOTER'S POINT

The distinguished namesake of Andy Soter, a visionary entrepreneur, resonates within the fabric of Ventura's heritage. His persuasive prowess led to a remarkable agreement with the City of Ventura, wherein he undertook the revitalization of a neglected parcel of land, while concurrently securing permission to adorn it with captivating public art. United by a shared desire to enhance the aesthetic allure of their beloved city and pay homage to cherished departed loved ones, Andy Soter commemorated his daughter Andrea, while his companion, the esteemed community activist Sam Povar, immortalized his beloved wife Oriana.
